There are many mountains and its weather is very appropriate for yak farming. The yak's milk is enriched with proteins and fat, therefore almost every cattle farm (husbandry) is engaged in producing dairy products, for example cheese, milk, yogurt, fermented milk, curd, etc. Some families engage in milk, butter, and special cheese according to European technology. In this way, they are producing a lot of kinds of dairy products that are famous on the Mongolian market. Bayan-Orookh Partnership decided to register Arkhangai's dairy products as a GI to get a premium prices as well as to develop their product on the national market.
